Claim Objections

Claims 1, 3, 5, 7, 10 are objected to because of the following informalities: a claim should be in the form of a sentence; these claims include a plurality of sentences. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 1-10 are generally narrative and indefinite, failing to conform with current U.S. practice. They appear to be a literal translation into English from a foreign document and are replete with grammatical and idiomatic errors.

Claim 1, lines 4-5, "the tower" lacks antecedent basis.

Claims 3 and 6, "the yawning structure" lacks antecedent basis.

Claim 10, line 3, "the canopy" lacks antecedent basis.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-10, as best understood, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moser et al. U.S. Patent 5,941,777 in view of Hennes U.S. Patent 6,665,985.

Moser et al disclosed an amusement ride comprising a platform (16) linked with a rotating shaft (7, 8); a plurality of passenger seat (17) arranged in longitudinally and transverse directions on the platform as shown in Fig. 2, the passenger seats are hung by brackets (21) through the suspending shaft, the brackets (21) is semi-fixed linked with the platform (16); seat pivoting structure (13) can make the seats pivot certain angle upon the suspending rotating shaft is positioned in the joint; drive set (14) set on both ends of the platform which can drive the platform rotate round it; the drive set is hydraulic cylinder. It is noted that Moser et al. failed to teach the use of a screen and projector assembly as set forth in these claims. However, Hennes disclosed a virtual reality theater comprising a hemisphere screen (170) with a plurality of projectors (350), a platform (12) for carrying an audience on tower (160), and special effect devices (360) at the side of the screen and beneath the platform. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the ride of Moser et al with the screen with projectors and special effect devices as taught by Hennes for the purpose of enhancing the ride experience.

Regarding claim 4, the special effect (360) of Hennes could be in the form of an audio device, special lighting device. It is noted that Hennes failed to specifically teach the use of air blower as one of the special effect devices. However, such air blower in a virtual theater is very well known in the art and widely used in amusement parks such as Disney Magic Kingdom in Orlando, Florida, or Disney at Anaheim, California. Therefore, it would have a matter of design choice to include air blower as one of the special effect devices of Hennes for the reason as set forth above.
